

Tips for Listening to Your Child Read

Every day your child will bring a Home Reader home from school. This is a book that is at the correct level for them to enjoy and practise the skills they have been learning in class. Please do not feel that this is the only text your child should read, though - they can read other books, magazines, newspaper articles, websites (with adult supervision), and anything else that is available and appropriate. The most important point is that they read and enjoy it.

It is really important to listen to your child read as regularly as possible, no matter what their level of reading is. It is also important to ask them 2-3 comprehension questions at the end of their reading, too, to make sure that they understand what they are reading and to help them to develop their comprehension skills.

If you have any questions about listening to your child read, please speak to Mrs Chapman.